Gordon Phillips
Wealth Preservation Consultant

A WORD FROM THE AUTHOR

Hi there, my name is Gordon Phillips ...

I'm an Independent Wealth Preservation Consultant. I helped victims of the 2000, 2007 and 2020 stock crashes repair their damaged retirement portfolios.

I now help families and small business owners navigate the new normal. I mentor them on how to sidestep the economic, political and lifestyle risks that threaten our financial health.

THIS BOOK IS DEDICATED to the many Americans who have seen their hard-earned wealth erased from their lives through the steadily deteriorating purchasing power of the U.S. Dollar, otherwise known as inflation.

In 1913 Congressman Charles A. Lindbergh, Sr. said the following with the passage of the Federal Reserve Act.

"This act establishes the most gigantic trust on earth... the financial system, has been turned over to the Federal Reserve Board... the system is private, conducted for the sole purpose of obtaining the greatest possible profits from the use of other people's money... from now on, depressions will be scientifically created."

The Federal Reserve Note aka the Dollar, was put into circulation in 1914 over great protest and has been "circling the drain" ever since. And as of 2026, the dollar has now lost 97% of its purchasing power since its inception.

Families who have held their wealth in physical gold and silver will never suffer the fate of those who priced their retirement in paper currency.

To your success ...

Gordon

P.S. Another vital preventative measure is to ensure your estate plan documents are perfectly up to date. Did you know, you can talk to an in-state law firm on any area of law including estate planning, for only fixed monthly fee with no retainer. Your fee covers document review and preparation, an unlimited number of legal matters, second opinions and optional representation in court. Personal plans range from $30-$60 per month, small business plans are $50-$170. Contact me at the link above for details.

About Gordon

GORDON PHILLIPS IS a Wealth Preservation Risk Consultant for families and small business owners. He is also a mentor and public speaker on the risks posed to your retirement plans and living standards by a greater economic reset.

Gordon has seen it all, as he helped victims of the 2000, 2007 and 2020 crashes repair their damaged portfolios. A grammar school recipient of the Daughters of The American Revolution Award for academic excellence, Gordon also graduated with honors from Phillips Andover Academy. After getting a perfect score on the SAT, he enrolled in premed studies at Boston U.

Gordon began his career in the 1980s as a free market consultant. He soon realized that even those portfolios managed by Certified Financial Planners (CFPs) lacked basic downside risk protection against stock market downturns.

He then quickly became a "financial unplanner" by helping families in the wake of the 1987 stock crash. Gordon said "never again", as he helped his clients align their portfolios with strong market trends. Most importantly, taught them how to move their nest egg out of harm's way.

My Awakening

It was the summer of 1979 and I was a band leader performing at a large corporate event at the Colonnade Hotel in Boston, Massachusetts.

On a break I found myself seated next to the CEO, as he pulled a Morgan Silver Dollar out of his pocket from the late 1800's and gave it a spin.

He said that this was the money that Americans had carried in their purses and pockets in those days.

He called it real money.

I'll never forget the distinctive, ringing sound that coin made as it settled down to the table's surface.

He then pulled out a brand new 1979 quarter and explained that it was essentially a clad, bimetallic slug with little more intrinsic value than a subway token.

His friends laughed, but I felt a bit foolish

I had no idea what he was talking about.

He went on to mention that inflation was soaring and that silver would take off like a rocket.

Early the following week I took the subway downtown to a coin dealer on Beacon Street and watched a friend purchase 100 ounces of silver in the form of 10 bars weighing 10 ounces each.

As I recall, they cost him about $600, or roughly $6 per ounce.

In January of the following year silver shot up to over $49 per ounce. He sold nine of those bars and pocketed over $4,000.

That certainly got my attention. The coin dealer suggested that we subscribe to a newsletter for coin collectors, so I did and what I learned over the next year changed my life.

I read the book 100% MONEY by Irving Fisher and learned how our entire monetary system is based on debt.

In the preface, the author cites the following quote by Robert Hemphill, former President of the Federal Reserve Bank in Atlanta:

“If all bank loans were paid ... there would not be a dollar of coin or currency in circulation. Someone has to borrow every dollar we have in circulation. We are absolutely without a permanent money system. We are completely dependent on the commercial banks. Someone has to borrow every dollar we have in circulation, cash or credit. If the banks create ample synthetic money we are prosperous; if not, we starve. It is the most important subject intelligent persons can investigate and reflect upon. It is so important that our present civilization may collapse unless it becomes understood and the defects remedied very soon.”

This was a bit alarming to me. Yet no one I knew had any idea that this was the case.

I read Article I, Section 10 of the United States Constitution which requires that, “No State shall ... make anything but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts”. Did this mean that all 50 states were in state of sedition? Why wasn’t the public up in arms?

Our paper money identifies itself as a FEDERAL RESERVE NOTE, but also as a “dollar.”

Yet the 1792 Coinage Act defined a dollar as 371.25 grains of silver. So a dollar is actually a unit of weight!

I then realized that I had entered an entirely new world in which everything I had been taught about money and economics in prep school and college was incorrect.

In the years to follow, I read Madison’s Notes On The Federal Convention, the Federalist Papers, the Anti-Federalist Papers, the Constitutions of the Northern and Confederate states as well as every Supreme Court decision from the administrations of Washington through Clinton

I realized that politicians and their banking buddies could devalue our money at will, and the highest court in the land would let them get away with it.

I realized that because wages never quite keep up with rising inflation, in the future it might require working twice as many hours to produce the same amount of goods and services.

In the years to follow I read every book I could find on money, finance, charting, technical analysis, trading and investing.

I helped a few friends scientifically rebuild their portfolios after the stock market Crash of 1987 using technical analysis to identify investing instruments that were strongly trending upwards.

I used sector diversification to lower their exposure and trailing equity stops to lock in profits.

One day someone asked me if I could help them. I looked around and laughed. And that was the day I became a consultant.

For over thirty years now I've worked as a private financial risk management educator, mentor and consultant to families and small businesses.

I currently serve as Chief Risk Officer for THE PISANO GROUP, a private currency research center based in Vancouver. Wherever you look today for protection from an uncertain monetary system, you find risk and instability.

Savings held in dollars are highly vulnerable to financial crises, soaring taxation, price freezes and other regulatory actions during periods of runaway debt, just as we have today.

This is a big problem for investors who work hard for forty years or more to save for a secure retirement.

With all the economic volatility in the world today, those plans could easily go up in smoke.

And that smoke is being fueled by an unhinged U.S. dollar that is now burning itself out.

As of later summer 2026, U.S. Treasury debt stood at roughly $40 trillion, up from about $38 trillion the year before — a single-year increase that added nearly $2 trillion in new debt in just twelve months.

To put that in perspective: the government is now borrowing almost $2 trillion a year just to keep the lights on, with no plan in sight to slow down, let alone reverse it.

To keep things simple, U.S. Treasury debt is up over TWICE as much in one year.

Financial commentators now blithely report on the growth of domestic debt as if a trillion here and trillion there is just business as usual. One trillion is the same as one thousand billion, which is the same as one thousand, thousand million. Can you wrap your head around numbers this large?

Yet this is the amount of debt amassed by people who claim to represent your best interests in the halls of power. This in turn makes it clear to any thinking individual that Congress has zero intention of ever paying off our growing mountain of debt.

QUESTION: So what could possibly go wrong from here?

THE ANSWER: Everything.

Meanwhile, gold and silver have served as superior forms of money and provided outstanding hedges against inflation since the beginnings of civilization.

Did you know that from 2000 to 2025, gold delivered over 30% more cumulative growth than the S&P 500 with dividends reinvested?

I like to joke that our financially deprived great grandparents lacked credit cards, CDs, HELOCs, ETFs, options, futures, reverse mortgages and crypto.

All they had in their pockets was real money, at least until 1964 when President Lyndon Johnson removed 90% of the silver from dimes, quarters and half-dollars.

Today's dimes are just bimetallic tokens.

On the other hand, precious metals are trustworthy assets that give you control of your life savings, even as the dollars in retirement portfolios melt away before your eyes, like holding an ice cube in the palm of your hand.

Inflation Eats Your Nest Egg

Silent, stealthy and unnoticed on a daily basis, inflation is the greatest tax you will ever pay.

For a period of 124 years from 1789 to 1913, wholesale prices in America were rock stable. Enter the 1913 Federal Reserve Act which privatized money creation by creating the Federal Reserve, whose job it is to stabilize our money.

In 1963 my parents bought a new house at 245 Highland Road in Andover, Massachusetts for $31,750. Today that house lists on Zillow for over $1 million.

Q: How can a home that has been deteriorating for 60 years now be worth 3,150% more?

A: Because today it takes that many more pictures of George Washington (on the $1 bill) to buy it.

DID YOU KNOW? ...

The money in your wallet calls itself a Federal Reserve Note (FRN) but is popularly known as a "dollar." A dollar is defined as 371.25 grains of pure silver under the 1792 Coinage Act. So a dollar is actually a unit of measurement, specifically of weight. A one-ounce Silver Eagle minted in 2026 has stamped right on its face "ONE DOLLAR". Yet it now costs over 60 FRNs to purchase it. Will the real dollar please stand up?

Truth be told, Congress could meet tomorrow morning and authorize the issuance of a debt free sovereign U.S. currency.

By calculating the volume of currency required to support all daily transactions within the U.S. economy (called “velocity”), just enough currency could be put into circulation such that there would be neither inflation nor deflation.

Wouldn’t that be wonderful? All sovereign nations enjoy this power, but none that I know of choose to exercise it.

Instead, the U.S. government retained a private for-profit banking cartel called the Federal Reserve to create our money supply and rent it to us for our use, plus interest. Again, the Federal Reserve Note is lent into circulation, not spent into circulation. Big difference!

A good guess would be that, like most Americans, your entire world is probably priced in dollars. You get paid in dollars, you pay your bills in dollars, you buy food in dollars and unfortunately, you also save for retirement in dollars.

There is just one problem, and it’s a BIG one. As I mentioned earlier, the dollar has been losing on average about 6% of its purchasing power per year.

Imagine if every year your house and yard got 6% smaller. Pretty soon you’d be living in a doll house on a tiny patch of land. How would that work out for you? Allow me to make another comparison.

Used cars lose about 12% each year due to depreciation. Imagine an investor with $100,000 in their 401(k).

And let's suppose the investor's personal advisor suggested they move their portfolio into hard assets, namely used cars. They purchase 30 old used cars worth $3,333 each and stick them out in the back yard under blue tarps.

One year later they're collectively worth just $88,000, down 12% in purchasing power. A year later they're down to $77,440. Then $68,147 in Year 3... to $59,970 in Year 4, and so on.

And the fact is that most investors are holding their life savings in a wasting asset class—the U.S. dollar—that is losing value each year only half as fast as a used car.

When it put the situation that way, it really gets your attention! If you have $100k sitting in a 401k or IRA, here is what it will look like at the end of each year, assuming 6% inflation:

EOY* Value

1	$94,000
2	$88,360
3	$83,058
4	$78,074
5	$73,390
6	$68,987
7	$64,848
8	$60,957
9	$57,299
10	$53,862
11	$50,629
12	$47,592

Now let's say the situation gets worse and inflation hits 12% again as it did during COVID.

Here is what things would then look like ->

In this example, we fall below $50k or roughly half of our starting balance in only 6 years.

* EOY = End of Year

EOY ...

1	$88,000
2	$77,440
3	$68,147
4	$59,970
5	$52,773
6	$46,440

THE SOLUTION is to move a portion of your dollars into an asset class that is NOT losing but consistently gaining in value.

There are many hard asset classes to choose from, including real estate, raw land, antiques, fine art and precious metals such as gold and silver.

Of all of these, precious metals are the most convenient to buy and sell and the most accessible, given that there are many hundreds of coin dealers throughout the United States.

Bullion vs Rare Coins

One holds physical gold not as a short or mid-term investment, but as a long-term hedge against the collapse of the dollar, or even the demise of the social structure itself.

If the banks were to shut down as they did in 1933, gold and silver would remain stable and possibly head straight to the moon as the dollar falls.

Another point: in 1933 President Franklin Delano Roosevelt (FDR) issued Executive Order 6102 requiring Americans to exchange their gold for dollars.

The penalty for failure to comply was 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine, or about $250,000 in today's cheapened currency.

The government continued to ban private ownership of gold until 1974. But rare coins (numismatics) were another story.

Collectible gold and silver coins were specifically exempted from Roosevelt's confiscation ban. This is a very important point to remember, and I'll revisit it in a moment.

In late 1979, inflation soared to 14.6% as gold and silver also spiked to record highs.

In January 1979 gold was trading at $230 an ounce.

In January 1980 gold hit $855 an ounce for an increase of 272% in a single year, as silver hit an all-time high of $48 an ounce.

The Fed Funds rate was quickly pushed to an unheard of 20% to control the crisis and very quickly the prices of precious metals dropped back down to their former levels where they stayed low for many years, not rising again until 2003.

So where do rare coins fit in here?

In the early 1980s the "old money" that represents the dynastic wealth in America saw the writing on the wall.

They knew that inflation would not be brought under control for the long term. So they shifted a portion of their assets into rare coins as a long-term hedge against the inevitable destruction of the dollar.

The PROFESSIONAL COIN GRADING SOCIETY OF AMERICA (PCGS) maintains a graph that tracks the value of a basket of rare gold coins priced in dollars since the early 70's.

Go here to see the chart:

<https://www.pcggs.com/prices/coin-index/pcgs3000>

As we can see from the graph titled "1970 to Date," the PCGS3000 index rose from a low of about 25,000 in 1982 to a high of 180,000 in March of 1989, for an increase of 620% in 7 years.

That 1980s run-up wasn't a straight line up and stay up. Though it was followed by nearly three decades of flat, even declining prices, before the market found its footing again. That history matters, because it's exactly what you'd expect from an asset class driven by dollar debasement: rare coins react sharply when confidence in the dollar breaks, then go quiet again once the crisis passes. The question worth asking isn't whether that pattern could repeat — with U.S. government debt now increasing by roughly one trillion dollars every 100 days, the debasement pressure is real and ongoing — it's whether you're positioned before it does, not after.

Why did this happen in early 2026?

Well... did you know that U.S. government debt is now increasing by one trillion dollars every 100 days?

Rare coins are heading to the moon for the same reason they did 40 years ago—because of new and severe debasement of the dollar.

And the “smart money” is paying attention.

Rare coins (numismatics) are considered collectibles and therefore possess a quality that bullion coins do not have.

They not only enjoy the price-appreciation of the underlying precious metal, also known as the spot price.

But they also carry a markup in the form of a rarity premium.

DID YOU KNOW? ...

In 2025, gold rose 45%. One of its best years on record, while the dollar lost roughly 2.7% to inflation. That's not a marginal gap. It's the difference between an asset that outpaced inflation by more than 15-to-1, and one that quietly lost ground.

Keep in mind that inflation shows no sign of cooling off, and with a global war in the cards, inflation can only increase from here. Now imagine that I show you two 1-ounce gold coins. One is a 2023 Gold Eagle, fresh from the U.S. Mint.

The other is a 1923, 1-ounce Saint-Gaudens Double Eagle that is in excellent condition for its age, which makes it especially rare since most coins get scratched and beaten up in pockets, purses and cash registers.

The newly minted Gold Eagle is worth whatever one ounce of gold is selling for, roughly $4,600 USD as of September 2026. Whereas the 102-year old gold coin—one of a relatively small number still in existence in such fine quality (a grade of MS67), is worth about $30,000.

The difference between $30,000 and $4,600, is the “rarity premium” of the coin. And unlike the bullion coin, with every passing year that collectible coin becomes increasingly rare.

The Solution

Consider purchasing gold and silver to hedge the purchasing power of your retirement nest egg against political and economic uncertainty.

You may wish to focus on bullion coins, however I consider rare coins to be the best choice when it comes to real asset protection since numismatics are the only class of precious metals that no western government has ever threatened to confiscate.

When it comes to the choice of precious metals and rare coin dealers, I can refer you to a dealer I've worked with for 25 years. In the spirit of full disclosure, I may receive a referral fee for that introduction, which changes nothing about my confidence in recommending them. But you deserve to know it.

Consulting Testimonials

Unsolicited testimonials by clients who were referred to Gordon to help them sidestep the economic, political and lifestyle risks that threaten our financial health ...

“GORDON, I DON’T KNOW what planet you came from, but they must teach everything there that they don’t teach here. I can’t thank you enough for pulling my chestnuts out of the fire after the 07 crash. Thanks, my friend.” — Ron J.

"I DON’T USUALLY WRITE testimonials, but I had to write to say that my whole life I couldn't figure out why it always felt so hard to get ahead but seemed so easy for some people. So now I know and I'm glad it's not too late for me. Amazing stuff, thanks this was great." — Jack M.

“WITH ALL the CRAZINESS in the markets these past twenty years, I can’t imagine having made it into a comfortable retirement without Gordon. His analysis of my situation, which was pretty bad, combined with his methodical approach to growing my money still feels like a miracle. I am so grateful, there aren’t words.” — Meryl F.

"AFTER the MARKET CRASHED and took my IRA along with it, Gordon taught me about managing and protecting my money. I don't know where I'd be without him." — Margaret G.

"GORDON IS AS CLOSE to a true renaissance man as anyone I've ever known. He's helped me in so many aspects of my life, can't thank him enough." — Jerome P.

"I NEVER DREAMED it was possible to get rid of $260,000 of debt in just 7 years on my same income by attacking my bills scientifically. They should teach this amazing technique in high school. I recommend you to everyone I know. Thanks so much." — Marty D.

"WORKING WITH GORDON has given me a sense of financial empowerment. I learned to manage my finances and plan for retirement on a modest budget, based on my personal risk tolerance. The knowledge I received will pay off for the rest of my life." — Tracy L.

"I HIGHLY RECOMMEND working with Gordon. He allowed me to see my current financial reality right where I am, and no kidding. This practical, no-nonsense approach to getting out of debt and building wealth is nothing that I have heard of anywhere else." — Kathy H.

"GORDON IS LIKE NO OTHER. He is full of information, facts, well-read commentary and energy!! He has a great perspective on the world, economy and life in general. He is open and kind and truly cares for people. I feel like I have a team on my side and someone there to help me navigate the markets and life, should I need it. The program has made me more proactive in my investing and planning. It is a program that is teaching me how to fish."
— Jeffrey K.

"GORDON, I WANTED TO SAY thank you! Thanks to our conversations... I realized I don't want to live like I'm in prison for 5-6 years as I pay off this house... Thanks to you, we now have a plan to get us out of debt completely." — Clark R.

"GORDON HELPED ME outline a game plan based on my personal risk tolerance. He gave me hope that I could provide for and protect my family during good times and bad. The knowledge he provided will pay off for the rest of my life. I feel lucky to have met him." — Ted L.

"GORDON IS A WEALTH of information for people seeking truth, answers, resolutions and news free of government censorship and regulation." — Ralph H.

"I MUST SAY THAT the QUALITY of my life has been improved by knowledge you have passed on to me. I did the work of learning, and it was you that provided the stimulus, the curiosity factor. Please keep in touch." — Dave S.

"AFTER MY DIVORCE I was left with a portfolio that looked like a multiple-car pile-up. Some stocks quintupled over the five previous years and then fell to half of their original amount. I had to rub my eyes to believe it - it was insane and all new to me, and I didn't have a clue where to start. Gordon helped me get it organized and on track with profitable market trends. He was incredibly helpful." — Margaret L.

"I APPRECIATE EVERY ounce of information and knowledge that you have shared with me. It has helped in many ways (personally, jointly as husband and wife and extended to my children (who are going to actively start by purchasing silver each month) ..and I'm sure many ways that I'm not realizing at this very moment. Paul and I are actively working on paying our debt off (thanks to you) and we are happy because we can actually see past the forest." — Karl H.

Money Mastery Training Testimonials

Unsolicited compliments by participants in Gordon's two-day Wealth Weekend Money Mastery Webinar ...

"NO ONE TEACHES this money mastery stuff like Gordon does. This is not Dave Ramsey. This is like sitting across from Aristotle. I've asked my kids to watch these lectures so they don't run into some of the same money problems I did. Very grateful for what I've learned." — Richard S.

"I'VE SPENT 25 YEARS in traditional school and was so impressed by Gordon's teaching that I felt compelled to write. His breadth and depth of knowledge on the subject matter and his ability to articulate and convey that information is a joy to experience." — Kathy K.

"ABSOLUTELY LOVE the class, brother. Learning a ton."
— Dick C.

"THANK YOU FOR Wealth Weekend. Due to the information shared, I have received a great advancement of my personal financial literacy, and am grateful for the depth of information, along with strategic solutions. I took control of my own health and well-being decades ago, and am fully ready now to take control of my economic future, for the continued benefit of my family. You are a gem of a teacher, and your wisdom and wit are a wonderful compliment to the material covered."

— Ted W.

"TWO STEPS TO WEALTH is like an epiphany! The light bulb went on in my head. The information is there, the tools are there, the software is there - all that is required is for me! Cannot thank you enough for the new paths you've opened for me."

— Richard K.

"WEALTH WEEKEND WAS ABSOLUTELY incredible because of the eye-opening information presented. Gordon's knowledge, patience, and willingness to help others learn about "real world" investing surpasses that of an entire college investment course...all nicely packed into one weekend! — Donald S.

"I MORE THAN ENJOYED the discussion. It was awesome. One of the most information-packed training sessions I have been to. I look forward to receiving the benefits of being a member of your family. Great job." — Clancy Y.

"WHAT A BRAIN FULL! If they taught this in college they'd go out of business because nobody would need them. Very cool." — Annie O.

"I AM STILL REELING from the information I received. It started a flow of movement forward where I had been quite stuck, wondering exactly where to begin, not knowing what to do and doing very little. Gordon really moved me forward, he is so deeply appreciated." — Candace C.

"I NEVER KNEW there was information like this for someone my age to take advantage of. At least this knowledge is mine now, and what a difference it is to know that I'll be able to retire after all." — Peter L.

"I LEARNED TO MANAGE my finances and plan for retirement on a modest budget. The knowledge I received during Wealth Weekend will pay off for the rest of my life." — Tom L.

"JUST A QUICK THANKS for the incredible class presentation that you just gave; I'm very impressed and inspired and excited and need some time to process all of this...wow! I'm very blessed to be a part of this... I love what I'm learning; it truly gives me hope for a better future!" — Daniel S.

"I MUST SAY that the quality of my life has been improved by knowledge you have passed on to me. I did the work of learning, and it was you that provided the stimulus, the curiosity factor. Please keep in touch." — Diane S.

"I DON'T USUALLY write testimonials, but I had to write to say that my whole life I couldn't figure out why it always felt so hard to get ahead but seemed so easy for some people. So now I know and I'm glad it's not too late for me. Amazing stuff, thanks this was great." — Jack M.

"GORDON IS AS GENUINE as they come. You won't find a more honest opinion on subjects most people steer away from. I have learned so many things from his classes that my views on the world have shifted to an understanding I would not have without Gordon's expertise and insights. I am ever so grateful. After my first Wealth Weekend, I did some adjustments to my IRA account and within 2 months, it increased over 35%. Wealth Weekend more than paid for itself in almost 2 weeks let alone the return I received in 2 months! It was well worth the investment! My trading background prior to meeting Gordon was a hodge-podge of methodologies. Gordon brought me back to simplicity and helped me see the clear picture of what is truly going on in the market, where are the footprints - my favorite insight. I was in a sea of indicators prior to attending his classes and now I understand that all of those indicators give me basically the same information and rather I really needed to understand the signals left by the market movers! I HIGHLY recommend the Wealth Weekend to anyone and everyone! You just can't go wrong and if you take notes and really commit to it, it can be an amazing life altering experience it has been for me!" — Jerome K.
